A Time for Action!

MAYOR PERCY SCURRAH is to be congratulated on his decision to form a Civic Action Committee to protest the CPR shipping strike.

All public-spirited citizens should rally behind the mayor to make their protests heard.

The throttling effects of this strike are now becoming apparent. Hotels, motels, restaurants and gas stations, largely dependent on tourist business, are suffering. So are the operators of gift shops, bus lines, theatres and clothing stores.

Victoria is a city that depends on transport for its very existence. It is the capital city of British Columbia, the centre of more than half the population of Vancouver Island.

The "public convenience and necessity" aspect of the dispute has had no effect on the company or the union, and has been largely ignored by Ottawa. Prime Minister Diefenbaker was less than impressive in the manner in which he dodged Mayor Scurrah's pleas for a telephone conference, in the early days of the strike. The Hon. George Pearkes, a cabinet minister and intimate of the prime minister, has not been able to convey the seriousness of our situation. The member for Victoria, Mr. McPhillips, has been hopeless.

H's time that Greater Victorians woke these people up. Would Ottawa allow Newfoundland to be cut off from the rest of Canada? Or Prince Edward Island?

Some heads must be knocked together. This will never happen until the Mayor's Civic Action Committee gets up on its hind heels and bellows-preferably from the front steps of the Parliament Build-

Angry Outcry On Ferry Issue

Angry outcry and frantic attempts to save Vancouver Island from economic doom broke out on several fronts

They came in the wake of announcements that mediation talks to settle the Canadian Pacific ferry strike have broken down, and that the company would be "sympa-thetic" to any offers to buy part of its strike-bound fleet.

Representatives of both offi cialdom and the citizenry moved "severe dislocation of a national fast this morning to get moves highway."

Only Provinces Can Help

cipal leaders have come to Vicfor their annual convention the most important session of its kind in the country.

Victoria has welcomed them with flowers, fair weather, centennial panoply and warm greetings from official representatives.

These are hard-working, sincere and competent folk who administer government in the form closest to the people. Their deliberations are to all men and women in cities and towns throughout the nation. It is to be hoped success will crown ess, activities, and that Victoria's hospitality will meet their expectations.

It is natural that their chief concern in this capital, as it has been in all other meeting places during recent years, should centre on matters of finance.

The cities and municipalities of Canada are hard put to it to raise the funds they need for expanding services. They are limited in their sources of revenue, and they are unanimously interested in efforts to free real property from the onerous burdens it carries to meet local needs.

For that reason it is not sur-prising that Hamilton's Mayor L. D. Jackson, president of the association, should cast appealing eyes at the Federal Government's 10 per cent sales tax, hoping it might come to municipal coffers.

Mayor Jackson, however, is looking in the wrong direction. In the first place, municipalities are the children of the provinces. The Federal Government has no direct responsibility to them.

Any allocation of Canadian sales tax revenue to the municipalities would call for revision of the entire concept of constitutional responsibility. And, even if the constitution were radically changed to permit such action, the municipalities would be asking help from a Federal Government facing the biggest deficit of its history this year - a staggering sum which may run to one billion

If they are to be helped, the municipalities must secure their assistance from the provinces. It true, as Mr. Bennett indicated obliquely in his welcome to delegates, that the provinces are depending to a growing extent on revenue from Ottawa - revenue which has been increased in recent years and may be further increased in future.

Conceivably the municipalities may hope for indirect federal help as allocations are made to the prov inces by Ottawa and, through pro-vincial treasuries, become available to civic and municipal governments.

This is a possibility open to municipalities at large.

In British Columbia, however, a special situation exists. On the one hand the municipalities are hard often being compelled to increase land taxes to an oppressive the other, British Columbia boasts large surpluses and is using them to reduce direct debt on a political time-table established by the premier.

Mr. Bennett tells the municipali "there are definite limits to the kind of fiscal aid that can provided by a province."

Of course there are limits. And admittedly British Columbia has made substantial grants to assist municipalities as municipal have risen. But the grants obviously are not sufficient to cover the in Real property owners are only too clearly aware of that fact as their civic and municipal taxes rise again this year.

The premier also states that he plans to retire the entire provincial direct debt by 1960. Should he accomplish this, then surpluses amounting to as much as $20 million a year would be available to British Columprovided new government expenditures did not eat up those funds.

At that time, municipalities within the province might expect more generous treatment from their

That is speculation - a matter ba for the future.

At this great convention of mayors from all parts of the nation, little hope arises for the municipalities, and no serious signs of relief for the Canadian home-owner.

But the point will not be overare limits to the fiscal aid to municipalities, he is doing so in the full knowledge that his debt retirement plans are his own. They are arbitrarily set for reasons generally apparent, and are being carried on without regard to the inconvenience they impose on hardpressed municipalities as well as home and property owners in this

The Big Question Mark

TT HAS BECOME TRITE TO SAY that the atomic and hydrogen bombs have confronted mankind with a completely new problem of race survival. Everyone knows the words: they have been repeated many times. But is obvious that in many cases little more than the words are known. The fact itself is still not fully appreciated, the conclusions to be drawn are not believed.

they were believed, the world would not still be stockpiling nuclear bombs and arguing about the exact extent of radiation that the human body can tolerate; it would not still be computing how many babies of the next and succeeding generations are likely to be deformed by the effects of radiation, and whether this amount is large enough to warrant some sort of action now or soon.

Dr. Albert Schweitzer interprets the scientists' term "tolerable limits" as meaning that "the number of deformed children that will be born as a result of the harm done to the sexual cells supposedly will not be large enough to justify stopping the (nuclear) tests.

On this basis the military-political question of atomic tests becomes a question for every human individual-to answer, not only for himself but for future generations.

The radio-activation of our globe is an irreversible process. It is not something you can wipe out and start all over again if you find you have made a mistake. It is this relentless process of cause and effect that is forcing many people to review the whole situation, to take another look at the conflicting statements of scientists and decide that, until the technical truths about tolerable quantities of radiation are determined one way or another that we had better on the conservative side.

Many nuclear physicists themselves are coming around to this con-Some are for unilateral action at once; others while recognizing the danger feel that any action worldwide, involving both East and West. But they agree that there must be action.

As Our Readers See It

Something to Hear

I am truly grateful to Ruth Enke for her article "The Lucky Dragon." In spite of all that has been published in the press, many people seem almost entirely unaware of the fearful possibilities of nuclear weapons.

Some of us who desire further enlightenment are looking forward to the visit of D. Wm. Davidon, Ph.D. He is to speak in the Eagles' Hall (View and Blanshard) at 8 p.m. tomorrow and comes to Victoria warmly recommended by the Friends Service Committee as a qualified to scientist eminently qualified to shed light on many of the questions regarding radiation, etc.

I trust that Ruth Enke and many of your readers will be in the audience. I. M. VALLANCE.

What We Find

About sixty-five years ago two books, treating of the same subjects, Capital and Labor, were popular reading. I found them so interesting after reading them that they are still fresh in my, memory. The books, Bellamy's "Looking Backward," and Ignatius Donelly's "Caesar's Column."

The former developed a society in which socialism reached its fullest ideals, while the latter saw society utterly col-lapse in the death struggle between capital and labor.

What an ideal of comfort and satisfaction Bellamy pictures for us, wearing in our early maturity the laurels of a ordered and well-spent working period of life.

Donelly reached an entirely different conclusion. Labor masses, after suffering a lifetime from the greed and exploitation of Capital, finally rose in armed protest and destroyed the system utterly, itself included.

Reading in our daily papers of present day events, makes us wonder where we are heading. Have we reached a crossroad? Which road must we take to survive? We must make that decision for ourselves.

We are in the same quandary as the erson who wrote the following on the limit of weight and destruction. They flyleaf of a hymn book in church.

A man can do nobody harra by reading "obscene" material, whereas he could by killing or robbing someone. Therefore we can have no censorship without causing the chaos of no government. Secondly, the definition of obscene as laid down by the U.S. Supreme Court is "a tendency toward lustful thoughts. This, as one can easily see would make almost impossible a case of universal obscenity (as one person will-vary in his thoughts of obscenity from snother). Also the censors would have to rely on their past memories of obscenity. is without asking the obvious question of what is wrong with obscenity.

Surely no sane individual expects the world to stop having lustful (with sex being only next to eating in

Thirdly, in regard to Mr. Emery's board of educated censors, the question comes to mind: What right have these people, with all their education to tell us in this "free" country what we can or cannot see, hear, or read. It is plainly none of their business what we see, hear or read. I suppose it would be the proper and expected thing for me to do to sub-mit to the censorship of these respected persons, but in all conscience reserve that right to myself and I feel

I must allow all others to judge for themselves as well.

Giving your freedom up to a man you respect still leaves you with as much freedom as if you had given it up to someone you did not respect and that is none at all. If even better citizens like Mr. Emery still cling to the idea of censorship I wonder what chance free-dom of speech has in this "free" country. G. B. NIXON former fog of superstitions.

The percentages of people who have never given the question any thought at all are also interesting. Norway 13, Italy 15, Germany 29, Belgium 43 and in Brazil 50 per cent of those questioned wouldn't bother thinking about it.

In spite of all that the Billy Grahams and the Oral Roberts can do, modern communications, modern education and modern civilization in general seem to be winning the battle toward freeing man's mind from the bugaboo of ancient religious myths.

This vital and immediate question in turn suggests the larger but more remote question that has be asked concerning Gen. de Gaulle's elevation to power.

By nature, be is authoritarian. He has a deep sense of history, a passionate natriotism patriotism, a magnificent personal style. But he has never, in the past, been really at his ease in the free play of free political institutions.

Truly Free?

has agonized the French Left. In de Gaulle's demand for full powers, in his claim to prepare his own constitution, even in his desire for a "Cabinet of Technicians," there have been reminiscences of Marshal Petain in 1940. The men of the Lett in France who are not Communists desperately fear that despite the General's stern insistence on "Republican legality," de Gaulle will end by giving France an authoritarian regime some sort.

If these fears are justified by the event, the ultimate lear of the men of the non-Communist Left will also be justified. Soon or late, an authoritarian and conservative French regime will founder, and it will then be replaced by still another authoritarian regime dominated by the Communists. One extreme will rely beget the other.

But there is no reason as yet, in this reporter's opinion, to suppose that Gen. de Gaulle has the slightest desire or intention of going to any authoritarian ex-treme. A happier forecast is suggested by the whole manner of his asking for power, the character of his reported cabinet, and every other item of evidence that is visible on the surface.

All his life this man has been ob sessed with the grandeur of France. If the two tasks de Gaulle has set himself are well performed, France can again be truly grand. The rebirth that France has already experienced makes that pos-sible. The raw material is there. Al now depends on what de Gaulle will do

While public interest is centred on bomb testing, the scientists will point out that far more radiation is from other sources. Previous reports have indicated that radiation from fallout varies from 1 to 2 per cent of natural background radiation. the question:

What is Breadfruit?

Our daily bread is made mostly from wheat. But the daily bread for the people of Maiaya comes from the breadfruit tree: The original home of this reliable tree is thought to be the Malayan-Archipelago. But it spread before the dawn into a parasol of large dark, of the South Pacific. For the all year round. Among the people of these regions it has glossy leaves, green and shady provided a staple food for una few catkins, always a few floral buds and always a few told ages.

Many people, does not. It is part of the syllable bio, and this means life. Biology covers a vast field, for it must include every form of life on the face of the earth. For this reason it is divided into a number of branches, for no one person could be an expert no one person could be an expert on every type of creature that lives. The bacteriologist is a biologist who studies the minute forms of life called bacteria. The botanist studies plant life. The zoologist studies animal life. And these are but a very few of the experts who can be called biologists.

Doubtless the reason why the full-length form of novie documentary hasn't been exploited to the full by those in the business is because they fear that vehicles would turn out to be artistic success but financial failures, the bugaboo of showbusiness But it would be difficult to believe that in this day of the enlightened masses that they wouldn't draw well, if not at first, then later on as the people learned and learning, wanted to learn more.

And another thing—such documentaries would never go out of date. Unlike dramatic productions, they would rut and set out to make new friends, never be passee but would become more precious with ach passing year even as today's news becomes to-

Russ Exhibit Stealing Show At World Fair

By DON INGHAM Times Staff Reporter

The number one attraction in Europe this year is the Exposition Universelle et Internationale de Bruxelles, better known as the Brussels World Fair, Travelling with a group of travel agents and newsmen from B.C., Alberta and Washington as a guest of Canadian Pacific Airlines, I was able to spend one full day at the fair, saw about ne fiftieth of what Belgium and the world put on

Our first con with the expo came at The Netherlands - Belgium pretty girl in a trim uniform oarded our bus, invited us all to visit the fair, and gave us

The next contact came two-hours later, when we reached the top of a hill in the Brus-sels suburbs and could see in the distance the gleaming silthe fair. The next day, a Saturday, we paid 60 Belgian francs—$1.20 Canadian—and entered a wonderland about 14 miles long and two-thirds of a mile wide.

Fully half of the fair is devoted to Belgium, with lofty pavilions displaying every developed economy.

Another section is devoted to the rich Belgian Congo, a third to international co-operation, a fourth to amusement, and the fifth-large as the whole Belgian show—to for-eign exhibitors.

We went there first, via the Avenue de Belgique, under the towering atomium to the Avenue de Congo, then along the Avenue des Nations to the Canadian building, graci-ous and dignified beside a

Canadian Exhibit in Excellent Taste

We had criticisms, as had every Canadian seeing his own country on show. I thought too great an effort had been made at dramatic architectural effects, and that a more straight-forward approach would have served the purpose better. Too many free-flying metal panels and swooping ramps.

It was cold. On a hot sum-med day its dark interiors and open areas will make it a Mecca, but on a typical Belgian spring day it was pretty-bleak. The displays themselves were static and photo-graphs were relied on heavily to tell stories that could have been done quite easily in three dimensions. The fishing and lumbering section, instance, was outstanding with its exquisite models of a west coast troller, purse seiner and beam trawl, and its tree-trunk slice and power

It can be safely said, though, that the whole of the Canadian exhibit is in excel-lent taste. The displays tell ient taste. The displays ear their story well, without boast or bombast. I came away feeling that it probably was not the most startling pavil-ion in the foreign section, but that it made the visiting Cana-dian proud to have come from the country it represents.
(Horror of horrors! I missed the famous Archambault wall because we came wandering in the back door.)

We saw the French build-ing—a glass and steel thing that couldn't be built as planned and had to be modiied right on the job with a the tricolor.

Still under construction during our visit, it neverthe a real showpiece and does France proud.

American Effort Big Disappointment

B.C. Lockout Ties Up

$14 Million Projects

The United States exhibit was a disappointment skey out of the circular building was faulty, and the displays seemed trivial. It was designed to show the American way of life, but it failed to put its message across.

I missed Great Britain's pavilion, which I heard was charming, also the excellent Dutch and Czech exhibits. But I did get to the Russian building, a $35,000,000 tour de force that was packing in the visitors like no other at the

Just name the item, and it was on display in this cavern-ous building. It was suggested that the show proved Russia had at least one of everyelectricians and plumbers.

thing, but in the place of honor were Sputnik models that led me to believe Russia can turn out the consumer goods she had on display any time she feels it is expedient

I feel the Russians are stealing the show because of stealing the show because of the simplicity of their entry. Russian thinking must have been along this line: "We are going to sell Russia, so what is the best means? A store, a big store, with all our goods on show." That is what they have, with a huge bust of Lenin dominating the main floor and broad mezzanines.

The Russian building may give rise to resentment, fear, dislike, envy, even wonder, but certainly it commands respect.

AN EDITORIAL

A Time for Action!

IVI on his decision to form a Civic Action Committee to protest the CPR shipping strike.

All public-spirited citizens should rally behind the mayor to make their protests heard.

The throttling effects of this strike are now becoming apparent. Hotels, motels, restaurants and gas stations, largely dependent on tourist business, are suffering. So are the operators of gift shops, bus lines, theatres and clothing stores.

Victoria is a city that depends on transport for its very existence. It is the capital city of British Columbia, the centre of more than half the population of Vancouver-Island.

The "public convenience and necessity" aspect of the dispute has had no effect on the company or the union, and has been largely ignored by Ottawa. Prime Minister Diefenbaker was less than impressive in the manner in which he dodged Mayor Scurrah's pleas for a telephone conference, in the early days of the strike. The Hon. George Pearkes, a cabinet minister and intimate of the prime minister, has not been able to convey the seriousness of our situation. The member for Victoria, Mr. McPhillips, has been hopeless.

It's time that Greater Victorians woke these people up. Would Ottawa allow Newfoundland to be cut off from the rest of Canada? Or Prince Edward

Some heads must be knocked together. This will never happen until the Mayor's Civic Action Committee gets up on its hind heels and bellows—preferably from the front steps of the Parliament Buildings in Ottawa.

AN EDITORIAL

A Time for Action!

MAYOR PERCY SCURRAH is to be congratulated on his decision to form a Civic Action Committee to protest the CPR shipping strike.

All public-spirited citizens should rally behind the mayor to make their protests heard.

The throttling effects of this strike are now be-coming apparent. Hotels, motels, restaurants and gas stations, largely dependent on tourist business, are suffering. So are the operators of gift shops, bus lines, theatres and clothing stores.

Victoria is a city that depends on transport for its very existence. It is the capital city of British Columbia, the centre of more than half the population of Vancouver Island.

The "public convenience and necessity" aspect of the dispute has had no effect on the company or the union, and has been largely ignored by Ottawa. Prime Minister Diefenbaker was less than impressive in the manner in which he dodged Mayor Scurrah's pleas for a telephone conference, in the early days of the strike. The Hon. George Pearkes, a cabinet minister and intimate of the prime minister, has not been able to convey the seriousness of our situation. The member for Victoria, Mr. McPhillips, has been hopeless.

It's time that Greater Victorians woke these people up. Would Ottawa allow Newfoundland to be cut off from the rest of Canada? Or Prince Edward

Some heads must be knocked together. This will never happen until the Mayor's Civic Action Committee gets up on its hind heels and bellows-preferably from the front steps of the Parliament Buildings in Ottawa.

Angry Outcry On Ship Strike

By DAVID COWLISHAW

Angry outcry and frantic attempts to save Vancouver Island from economic doom broke out on several fronts

They came in the wake of announcements that mediation talks to settle the Canadian Pacific ferry strike have broken down, and that the company would be "sympathetic" to any offers to buy part of its strike-bound fleet.
